

THE PRINTER'S HONORABLE.
In seasons when our funds are low, Subscribers prove themselves slow.
A few supplies keep up the flow Of dimes and quarters rapidly.
But we shall see a better sight, When dues pour in from more than night.
Commanding every sixpence bright To be forthwith ever speedily.
Our business and our bills are pressed,
And our accounts are somewhat pressed.
The holders you must be paid With threats of law and chancery.
Thus to despair we're driven daily, There's precious little use of living.
When our last copper's sweetly given,
From hands that hold it lovingly.
But larger yet these dues shall grow, When interest's added on below.
Lengthening our debt a foot or so,
When gazing at them hopelessly.
To so, that scarce we have begun To plead for time upon a dun, Before they come another one.
Demanding pay cheerfully.
The prospect darkens, oh, ye brave!
Who would our very bones save?
Waive, please, all your powers to waive,
And pay the printer cheerfully.
Ah! a fine point in pleasure sweet,
A few dimes sent to meet, Asking of us a clear receipt.
For papers taken regularly.

COULDN'T BEHAVE MYSELF.
A Saratoga correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser overheard two young ladies talking, and this was what they said:
"Nell, I'm going home to-morrow."
"Going home to-morrow. What for, pray?"
"Because I can't behave myself."
"Well, out with it, Jennie. What have you been doing?"
"Lots of things."
"Well, give us the first."
"You know Frank Kennedy, Nell?"
"That soft, slumping fellow, that always tells you how 'chawing' you look?"
"Exactly. This morning I saw him coming, and made up my mind to take him down."
"Well, what then?"
"I put my diamond brooch in a chair, pin upwards, and asked him to sit down."
"He sat down, of course, and what then?"
"He jumped up and yelled, 'Oh, my—'"
"What's the trouble?" I asked. "Nothing in particular, only I thought of an engagement at this very moment; you must excuse me." And off he went; and would you believe it, Nell, the brooch was sticking to him."
"That was awful, Jennie," and the two girls giggled together for five minutes. Nell broke the spell by demanding, "What next?"
"Why, you see I was talking to that young sprig of a clergyman, the Rev.
Tom Parsons. We had nearly talked each other to death, when, as luck would have it, he made some remark about mosquitoes. I was on my native heath at once, and I began telling him of my experience at Rockaway."
"Did they bite very hard?" inquired the Rev. Thomas. "I wish, Mr. Parsons," said I, "you could see my legs and judge for yourself."
"That was a herid speech, Jennie.
How could you say such a thing?"
"Why, Nell, it popped out before I knew it."
"And what did Mr. Parsons say?"
"He blushed clean to the eyes and I ran away."

PRETTY TOUGH FLUG.
One day last month when trade was dull, a Vicksburg grocery clerk procured a piece of sole-leather from a sheepskin, painted it black, and laid it aside for a few days. Within a few days an old chap from back in the country came in and inquired for a piece of chewing-tobacco. The piece of sole-leather was tied up, paid for, and the purchaser started for home.
At the end of the sixth day he returned, looking downcast and dejected, and walking into the store, he inquired of the clerk:
"Member that tobacco I got here the other day?"
"Yes."
"Well, was that a new brand?"
"No, same old brand."
"Regular plug tobacco was it?"
"Yes."
"Well, then it's me; it's right here in my jaws," said the man. "I know I was getting 'tubby' old, but I was allus handy on 'bittin' plug. I never seed a plug afore this one that I couldn't tear to pieces at one chaw.
I not my teeth on to this one and bit, pulled me twisted like a dog at a rifle, and I've kept 'bittin' and pullin' for six days, and that's the same now as the day you sold her to me!"
"Seems to be good plug," remarked the clerk, as he smelled of the counterfeit.
"She's all right; it's me that's failing!" exclaimed the old man. "I meant to come here, and I'll go home and feed the farm to the boys, and get ready for the grave!"

TAKING THE RISK.
From the Vicksburg Herald.
The other day a colored resident of Vicksburg had found a bottle of whisky in the suburbs of the city, and hating a pedestrian, he inquired: "Dat's whisky, ain't it?"
"Smells like it, and I guess it is," was the reply.
"And dere ain't no pizen in it?"
"Well, there may be—I can't tell; I shouldn't want to drink it."
"If dere was pizen I'd be a dead nigger, eh?"
The funder turned the bottle over and over, smelled of the contents three or four times, and finally made ready to drink, saying:
"Dere's heaps of pizen lyin' around loose, but dere's also heaps of niggers in Vicksburg, an' Ize gwine to tip up de bottle an' run de chances!"

THE CRY GO WEST. has changed, and a Western editorial is headed "Hop Yeast!"
A Western editor nobly offers himself as a substitute for the injurious corset.
In reply to a young writer who wished to know "which magazine will give me the highest position quickest?" a contemporary advises "a powder magazine, if you contribute a fairy article."

A FABLE, WITH AN ALLEGORY.
Monday afternoon a party of eight or ten met at the Ophelia. Orestes, to name the different lakes and "eddie" along the run of the creek, between the lumps and the railroad bridges.
Nothing unusual transpired on this occasion, until late in the afternoon, when, in sailing a deep lake formed by a bend in the channel of the stream, the scene became so hazy and difficult to drag that it was concluded that it was hung to a root or log on bottom.
Lum Devane, a lad of 16 years of age, went under for the purpose of disentangling the scene. Upon reaching the bottom, a distance of 6 or 7 feet, he found what he supposed to be a log, and, embracing it, he surprised, as well as that of the party, can better be imagined than expressed, when upon rising, the supposed log was found to be an alligator. As soon as the water-er's surface was reached, the infuriated monster, taking the situation at a glance, made one terrible lunge at De-vand, and striking him in the breast, knocked him into the deep water, and containing the attack caught him between his vise-like jaws around the waist.

Seeing the danger of their comrade, the rest of the party sprang to his relief. Fortunately for Devane, he was on the outside, and the alligator was upon the inside of the "gains" which being struck and nearly killed at each end, somewhat impeded the vicious reptile in his attack. This, together with the prompt and fearless action of the entire party, who seized his torso by the tail and legs, and commonly to one their knives, cut him diligently, is all that saved the life of Lum Devane. He was finally extricated from the jaws of the maddened monster, and escaped with a few painful, though not dangerous, bruises and bites. The alligator was about 8 feet in length, and it was with difficulty that six or eight strong and courageous men succeeded, after inserting their knives in several tender places, in bringing him ashore. He fought desperately as long as life lasted, and in his dying moments he set up a deafening roar almost equal to that of a lion.

THE FIRST MARRIAGE.
We like short courtships, and in this Adam acted like a sensible man. He fell asleep a bachelor, and awoke to find himself married. He appeared to have popped the question almost immediately after meeting M'd'le Eve, and she, without any distinction or apprehension, gave him a kiss and herself. Of this first event in this world, we have, however, our thoughts, and sometimes in a poetical mood have wished that we were the man that did it. But the deed is done.
The chance was Adam's and he improved it. We like the notion of getting married in a garden. It is good taste. We like a private wedding.
Adam's was private. His evasive beaux were there; no croaking old maids; no chattering aunts and grun-tling grandmothers. The birds of heaven were the ministers, and the good wife sang its light upon the scene.
One thing about the wedding brings queer thoughts to us in spite of scriptural truth. Adam and his wife were very young to be married—some two or three days old, according to the sagest speculations of theologians—mere babies—larger, but no older, without experience, without a house, without a pot or kettle—nothing but love and Eden.

The following tribute to the noble preservative art, we find in a contemporary, and we commend its strong contrast to the intelligent reader. "He is only a printer." Such was the sneering remark of a leader of aristocracy—the codfish aristocracy. Who was the Earl of Stanhope? He was only a printer. What is Prince Frederick William—married to the Princess Royal of England? He, too, was only a printer. Who was William Caxton, one of the fathers of literature? He was only a printer. Who were G. P.
Morris, N. P. Willis, J. Gales, C. Richardson, J. Harper, Horace Greeley, Bayard Taylor, Charles Dickens, Thiers, Jerrold, George D. Prentice, and Senators Dix, Cameron and Niles?
They, too, were printers. What was Benjamin Franklin? He, also, was a printer. Every one cannot be a printer—brains are necessary.

It is a popular belief that lightning has never been known to strike a beech tree. In a recent thunder shower in Goshen, N. Y., a beech and a maple standing near together, with branches interlocking each other, received an electric bolt from a passing cloud which shattered the maple and passed into the earth through a prostrate hemlock tree lying near, which was stripped of its bark nearly the whole length. No trace of the lightning was left upon the beech.

A SHORT time since two young ladies were accosted by a gypsy who told them that for fifty cents she would show them their husbands' faces in a pall of water, which, being brought, they exclaimed: "We only see our own faces!" "Well," said the old woman, "those faces shall be your husbands' when you are married."

WHEN an Indiana girl gets tired of a lover, and determines to dismiss him, she doesn't throw much fresco work into her speech. "Guess you can pull off now, Sam," is her remark, "this egg won't hatch."

A JANEVILLE wedding was put off half an hour because the girl had her pull-back dress so tight that she couldn't walk down stairs till they let out three reefs in it.

CENTAUR LINIMENTS.

So nearly perfect are the recipes of these wonderful pain-removing and healing Centaur Liniments, that we can confidently say they will relieve any pain arising from flesh, bone or muscle derangement. We do not pretend that they will mend a broken leg or exterminate boils, but even in such cases they will reduce the inflammation and stop the pain. Nor can we guarantee the power to remove the body poisoned by whiskey. Temperance is as necessary to the proper use of these liniments as the proper use of the liniments.

The White Centaur Liniment is particularly adapted to all cases of Rheumatism,
